

KPM ADMITTED ONTO STOCK EXCHANGE AIM MARKET

On 11th of October KPM were admitted onto the London Stock Exchange AIM market as Eco City vehicles Plc (ECV). For legal and Stock Exchange purposes, when this transaction was completed KPM acquired Pannal Plc which was described for legal and Stock exchange purposes as a “Reverse take-over” – but this makes no difference to KPM’s core business.

The Directors of KPM still remain in control, and are the majority Shareholders.

KPM continues to be committed to being the UK’s leading Independent Taxi Dealership, financing and servicing company. Peter Da Costa said: “This has been a monumental step in the lives of all at KPM, and after serving the Industry for over 32 years, has allowed us to reward our hard working Senior Management with shares in a company they have help build.

“It also allows our loyal customers now to become Shareholders, something we have been asked time and time again, since we became a privately owned Plc back in the 80’s. The move will enable the company to take advantage of the opportunities that are available in the environmental sector, an area that the KPM has been involved in for some time now. The new platform will help grow the company in that market place as well as our core business, and take advantage of the new technology being introduced in the busy business to business sector, by way of environment friendly vehicles enhanced with fuel saving ideas.

Peter Da Costa

“I wish to thank our Customers , suppliers and everybody who have over the years given us support that has allowed us to reach this milestone.”

AN ‘ENCHANTED’ CHRISTMAS IN OXFORD STREET

Oxford Street’s Christmas Lights are set to dazzle again this year, with an overhead canopy in celebration of the season and Disney’s Christmas movie, ‘Enchanted’. The big switch-on takes place John Lewis Oxford Street on Wednesday 7 November, with thousands gathering to see which world-famous celebrity will appear for the unveiling of Christmas in the West End. The evening’s entertainment will feature a live stage show high above the crowds, beginning at 5pm to warm everyone up before the exciting switch-on moment at 6.17pm as the whole mile and a half of Oxford Street’s famous shopping district is bathed in the glow of the ‘Enchanted’ Oxford Street Christmas Lights.

The Oxford Street Christmas Lights use LED bulbs which use 75% less energy. All of the West End Christmas Lights, Bond Street, Oxford Street and Regent Street are also carbon offset through PURE, the first UK registered charity dedicated to combating climate change by carbon offsetting, which uses a technology-based approach to reducing carbon emissions.
