

MERCEDES VITO TAXI GETS E-LEATHER SEATS

E-Leather in black and high visibility yellow is being used on seats in the Mercedes Vito taxi. Each taxi features six square metres of black E-Leather upholstery chosen to maintain the classic styling of the Mercedes vehicle. A key requirement for One80, the company who produced the Vito taxi, was to use an application which is durable as taxis may travel up to 100km in one year but must still look like a new car. Engineered Leather, known as E-Leather, products are re-woven using surplus leather fibre and are supplied in rolls which results in only a five per cent cutting wastage compared to up to 40 per cent wastage for traditional hides. E-leather Ltd distributes its unique material to the transport sectors including aviation, railways and automotive.

Roy McMaster, sales and marketing director at One80, said: "E-Leather looks great when it is upholstered in our taxis. It looks and feels as good as traditional leather with a nice finish and above all it is very durable and stays fresh, which is essential when transporting so many passengers."

"Our taxis are used by thousands of people each year and are subjected to a lot of wear and tear, but E-Leather looks like new and maintains a good appearance and consistency, even after months of use."

ROAD CLOSURE IN CAMDEN

On Friday 11 September 2009 Great Queen Street, between Wild Street and Newton Street, will be closed to vehicles between 07:00 and 19:00.

The reason for this closure is the opening of Great Queen Street Square and Camden's 2009 Car Free Day event.
