FORTHCOMING BLACKWALL TUNNEL WEEKEND CLOSURES

TfL will switch the Rotherhithe Tunnel to operate two lanes of southbound traffic during the next planned weekend closures of the southbound Blackwall Tunnel. During the last weekend closure of the southbound Blackwall Tunnel (4-7 June), many parts of east London experienced severe traffic congestion, mainly due to the volume attempting to head south of the river via the Rotherhithe Tunnel. With the tunnel only having one lane southbound, delays meant frustration for drivers.

Northbound drivers, who would usually use the Rotherhithe Tunnel, will still be able to use the Blackwall Tunnel (which has two northbound lanes open) during these weekend closures, as well as alternative river crossings such as Tower Bridge, Woolwich Ferry or the Dartford Crossing. Garrett Emmerson, Chief Operating Officer for Streets, TfL, said: "By making the Rotherhithe Tunnel operate two lanes southbound during the weekend closure of the Blackwall Tunnel, we can increase the capacity of the diversion route by up to 600 vehicles an hour. This will make a massive difference to any drivers who wish to cross the river during this weekend. We are working to ensure closures are as limited as possible, and will closely evaluate each of them in order to be able to respond to any issues that may occur.

"However, I appreciate that there will still be a level of disruption during these weekend closures and therefore urge drivers to plan ahead and avoid the area if at all possible."

Future closures will take place on 10-13 September and 1-4 October.

Variable Messaging Signs will be located on key approach roads to both Blackwall Tunnel and Rotherhithe Tunnel to divert traffic to an appropriate river crossing.
